NORFOLK, VA., August 31.—"Much obliged to you," was the happy expression on Manager Lipe's face at the close of today's victory, won without effort, through the wildness of Forbes, and poor support given Fox. The score was 4 to 0.

For five innings it was the prettiest and fastest battle on the local diamond this season. Forbes and Quinn were going in great shape, and the former seemed to have a shade the advantage. But it was in the sixth that Forbes lost his nerve, could not locate the plate and then blew up. He forced in one run, with free passes, before John cleverly worked out of the hole, but later was given poor support. The bleachers began to hum. "School boys" as the boys got in a series of misplays and "bump work." Russell capped the climax by forgetting that only two were out and starting for his position in the field, was tagged and a chance to score ended. It was painful and at the same time laughable. All the time the Colts were playing clean, fast ball, and Quinn had the local sluggers on the bench. They deserved to win. Their only error was excusable and harmless.

How the Runs Were Made.

Forbes went up in the air in the sixth, allowing the Colts two runs. Quinn and Lipe drew support. Quinn was safe on Forbes's error, filling the bases. Stinson drew a free pass, forcing in Quinn. Fox relieved Forbes, and Sandherr quit on short fly to Seitz. Lipe scored on Timman's infield out, and Ison quit by the same route, short to first.

RICHMOND'S NEW MAYOR WILL PRESENT THE PRIZE

Gold Coin to Be Awarded the League's Most Popular Player at Labor Day's Afternoon Game, Before What Will Probably Be the Record-Breaking Crowd in Richmond's Baseball History.

Only four days' voting, and The Times-Dispatch has popular player in the Virginia State League will have become a thing of the past and a matter of history. The contest continues, and are not quite five thousand votes apart to-day, and as the vote now being polled is a large one, there is no telling what a few days may bring forth.

The contest closes promptly at 12 o'clock noon Saturday, September 5th, and no vote coming in after that time will be counted. Let all those who are in any way interested in this contest take notice, so that no rights may come in after the limit is reached.

The gold coin will be presented on Labor Day at the afternoon game, when the Hon. Harvey Crockett, Richardson, Mayor of Richmond, has consented to be the speaker of the occasion, and will present the prize to the winner.

Over 2,000,000 votes have already been cast, and the next four days' vote will certainly be very heavy, as the interest in the contest continues unabated. The total number of votes received at this office would make a pile slightly more than three-quarters of a mile high, if laid one upon the

SHOEMAKERS LOSE TEN-INNING GAME

Errors and Weak Hitting Give Bugs Game—"Smiling Al" Orth's Support Ragged.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, VA., August 31.—Errors by Byrd and Hooker in the tenth inning gave Danville the winning run in one of the sharpest contested pitchers' battle of the season in Lynchburg. Orth did not get the support in the pinches that the Red Sox gave Walsh, and therein the shoemakers lost. Hooker's hitting was the best of the team, but it was lucky hitting, for the double was a pure misjudgment by Schuman in left and the single came on the next ball after Sweeney had dropped in easy foul from Henn's bat.

ENJOY HOSPITALITY OF CHIEF EXECUTIVE

President and Mrs. Roosevelt Extend Cordial Welcome to the American Olympic Team and Receive Them at Sagamore Hill—Mr. Roosevelt Presented With Two Medals by Sheppard and Flanagan.

OSTER BAY, N. Y., August 31.—With a gun from the local yacht booming a rousing welcome, the American Olympic team victors in the recent athletic events in London, steamed into the waters of Oyster Bay to-day for their visit to President Roosevelt.

When they left their boat and reached the top of Sagamore Hill, whereon is perched the summer home of the nation's head, Mr. Roosevelt was on his broad veranda. They appeared, two abreast, whistling "A Hot Time in the Old Town To-Night."

James E. Sullivan, the American commissioner, was first to be received by the President. They then entered the reception-room with the President's wife Mrs. Roosevelt and their son Kermit. Commissioner Sullivan acted as master of ceremonies, presenting each one of his brawny charges in turn.

The President grasped each one by the hand and to each he spoke a few words of greeting and commendation. John J. Havens, the Marathon hero, had the distinction of being the first to be presented.

"I am proud of you," said the President to him, as he gave him a vigorous handshake. "Your feat was marvelous. You won a great race, and I am glad of it."

The President then turned him over to Mrs. Roosevelt, and she and Kermit engaged him in conversation. Melvin Sheppard next came up. The winner of the 1,500-metre race beamed all over when the President assured him that it was a "bully victory" which he and the boys had won in London.

Tewanina, the Indian who came in ninth in the Marathon race, pleased the President immensely.

"I am glad," he said to him, "that a real original American competed for America and represented the country abroad. It was a fine showing that you made."

So it was with each and every one of the team that had made the trip, and when the last man had been grasped by the hand and heard cheered by the President's words, when they had passed into the dining-room and partaken of refreshments, Mr. Roosevelt followed in, and the team had no time to say for himself. Some one proposed three cheers for "The Greatest President the United States ever had, Theodore Roosevelt," and everybody responded.

Mr. Roosevelt checked an effort to repeat the cheer, and addressed the athletes as follows:

"Gentlemen, I just want to say one word of greeting to you. I am sure you feel that every one of you is in hyperbolic over, but I think it is the literal truth. Mr. Sullivan, to say that the feat that this team has accomplished is never been duplicated in the history of athletics."

"I think it is the biggest feat that has ever been performed by any team of any nation, and I congratulate all of you. There is not a man on the team who does not deserve his share in the total credit. It is not only the men who won the firsts, but it is every man on the team who did his duty, as they all did, who deserves his share of the credit. I congratulate you all, and I thank you all."

"I want to say, Mr. Sullivan, a word of special thanks and acknowledgments to you. Without you we never could have gotten together and sent over such a team, and our gratitude, gentlemen, is due not to those who were so glad to see you come back, but to those who have plenty of them, but to those who have contributed to send you abroad in such shape that you could be victors. I think I could come near passing a correct estimate of our nation on those records and feats of you."

"Now that we are here, we must not forget how proud we are of the American flagmen and review men. You can believe in straight shooting for the battleship and private citizen, either one."

Mr. Roosevelt sat with Mr. Sullivan in the dining-room during the rest of the visit, and appeared to be greatly interested in the first-hand report.
